6. Addressing Problematic and Harmful Books:

Our learning commons is committed to providing a safe and inclusive environment for all students. We recognize that certain books may contain ideas, words, concepts, or images that can be harmful or problematic.

When addressing such books, we will adhere to the following guidelines:

Evaluation and Selection:

Before purchasing any books, we thoroughly evaluate the content by scanning through the pages and analyzing the words, images, and overall themes. We work closely with local book vendors who understand the local context to ensure the appropriateness of the materials.

Patron Concerns:

1. If a patron has concerns about the content of a particular book, they can request a "Book Exclusion Form" from the librarian. The book in question will be immediately removed from the shelves for review.
2. In cases where the book contains sexual content, references to suicide, violence, political conflicts, or nudity, the librarian will immediately remove the book from the library system and shelves.
3. If the book contains controversial content that may be subject to differing viewpoints, the librarian will send the book and the completed form to the management for further review. The management will then decide whether to remove certain content from the book or label it as a special collection accessible only to teachers and administrators.

7. Book Fair Policy:

When organizing a school-wide Book Fair, we are committed to ensuring that the books presented to students align with our Learning Commons Policy.

Selection and Review:

Before finalizing the Book Fair, we will review the titles on the book list provided by the participating bookstores. We will request the removal of any books that we determine do not align with our values and educational objectives based on the title and other available information.

Post-Setup Review:

After the vendor has set up the Book Fair, our library team will conduct a thorough scan of the books. We will closely examine the content of the books and request the removal of any materials that we determine do not align with our values and educational objectives.
